

JOVIAN TREASURES

Explore critical thought, research, preservation, and conversation under the guise of a scientific history lesson with Jovian Treasures. In the age of "fake news," how do you discern between what is real and what is fictitious when presented as factual information?

Jovian Treasures invites the visitor to accept as truth the premise that aliens lived on earth and left ancient artifacts from the civilizations they interacted with.

Award-winning sculptor and University of North Florida Professor Jenny K. Hager and her sculpture class have created the relics, artifacts, and partial spaceship as real representations of archeological discoveries. The exhibit examines alternative life forms, spanning time and representing a variety of cultures, including Egyptian, Mesopotamian, Aztec, Jovian, and Western. Items include small figurines, tools, decorative objects, and a section of a transportation vessel.
